

A Drop in the Cup

Here's my cup... and there's a drop!

“Where's my cup?”
I looked here... and there.
“There it is! My blue cup!”

Dad held the jug.
He tipped it slowly.
A little trickle...
Water in my cup!

A drop on the table!
“Here, Dad!”
I pointed.

Dad brought a cloth.
We wiped the drop together.
“Where did it go?”

“Bismillah.”
Dad helped me.
One little sip...
Ahh!

“Alhamdulillah.”
I put the cup back.
“Here's my cup!”

Read it together

Within the 0-2 stage • full read-aloud text aimed around 18-24 months.

Point to the cup, then the drop, and wait for your child's response. If they ask where the drop went, say, “The cloth soaked it up.” Pretend to wipe with a dry hand; water and drinking are not needed to join in.

An original fictional story. Ethical reference: Quran 56:68-70; Sahih Muslim 2734a. No historical event or direct scripture quotation is presented in the child’s story.

Alhamdulillah: all praise is due to Allah. Bismillah: in the name of Allah.